The interview with Pat Robertson and Sid Vicious was conducted by direct satellite hook-up with Heaven, Hell, and Muncie all interlocked by our friends at WTBS, the superstation.

Korean Surprize:

3 diced dogs
47 packages Ramen noodles
2 pounds squid
1 pumpkin, 1 squash (whole)

Bengal aides interested in head job

Though Muncie and Ball State isn't going "on the wagon," it is going dry. Seven of the worlds top scientists have been studying the water supply of the Muncie area. Ivan Brovenovf, Chief Executive of the Dept. of Russian Rescources, says, "since all of the rivers in North America flow south into the oceans...there is no way for the water to get back north to once again flow through rivers and streams. Thus suppling life to humans and animals."
From the failure of this cycle, Muncie's water supply is falling at the rate of 210 gallons per week. "at this rate, the target area will be totally dry by the year 1988," says Brovenovf. The efects are already present in areas surrounding any local body of water. Hundreds of reports document water as having a "distinct taste of sewage."

The E.P.A. is currently budgeting over $320 million on the research into melting icebergs in the North Pole. The main drawback to this idea is the flooding of areas to the extreme north. Mayor Carey says, "the death and destruction of the northern areas, is a small price to pay for our water!"

Del's GRUB HINTS

By COUNTRY DEL BUFORD

Dear Del,
When I try to raise a loaf of zucchini bread to bake, it usually falls before I get it in the oven. What's a girl suppose to do?
Signed Zuked by Zuky

Dear Zukette,
Every girl can have an orgasm. Maybe your Hubbie's peter needs a lil' lengthening. Try boiling his dick in oatmeal before sex.

Dear Del,
Uh, in the morning I like to stick my toast in to my wife's large toaster, but the hole is so wide it never gets hot. What can we do?
Signed Always Toasted

Dear Toast her,
Try some of my Toasthelper. Wrap it around your slice and you'll get a snug fit.

Dear Del,
I have no use for my life. My wife just burned my scramble eggs. My dog just bit my leg. My teenage daughter just ran away from home. And my fine, young son has turned out gay. I am thinking of suicide. Help!
Signed Stung Once To Many

Dear Stung,
To reheat your hollendaise sauce, always add one tablespoon of hot water to keep the eggs from separating.

Dear Del,
When boiling up Ramen noodles, how do I get the special Korean touch?
Signed Moonie For Hire

Dear Moonie,
Life is a bowl of chili. Your boyfriend is a beanhead.

Man with mental trouble made way to Oval Office

BB: Halejulah brothers-in-faith. Let us cut through the fat of the sow and talk to my two guests, Pat Robertson and his running mate for the oval office. Pat, just tell me about how you came to choose Sid Vicious for the next VP, divine inspiration, perhaps?
PR: Let me tell you it is an honor to be in your company.
BB: Thanks.
PR: Yes, the Big Man gave me his advice. We decided my running mate would be one of his own will, strength and beliefs. Yes, it is Sid Vicious(despite rumours of his death).
BB: Mr. Vicious, what do you have to say about being this country's next Vice?
SV: God fuckin' alright!
BB: But what are political views?
SV: Pat thought I could pick up on the fringe element.
BB: Like right-winging democrats?
SV: Yeah, got me haircut for them.
BB: What do you think of your running mate?
SV: I think 'e has got maggots in his noggin, but his wife gim me good dry fuck. Buys me skag too.
PR: Hail the Lord, he's speaking in tongues!
BB: Sayeth some more wisdom, Sid.
SV: I ain't got fuckin' much to say. Ask dickhead, he does the talkin'.
PR: Sometime he gets me confused with Dick Nixon, his political icon.
SV: Sometimes I get him confused with Hitler.
BB: Well, this just about says it all. Have any closing comments, Pat?
PR I want to end secular humanism, casual sex, and drughead communists. We are going to make America the moral country it should be by the use of God's wrath. Anything from you, Sid.
SV: We'll fistfuck anybody who gets in our goddamn way, you boneless prick!
BB: I' ll see you all next issue. Amen.

THE CAPTAIN Down Under and Shooting Up

INTERVIEWS WITH:

CAPTAIN KANGAROO

After his abscence from morning television for several years, Captain Kangaroo is back on Public Television to bring joy and learning to your child and mine. Let us bring his story up to date before we get into the interview.

When CBS cut the Captain's show down to a half-hour and the pushed the show to 5:30am, it killed the ratings and nearly killed the Captain. To compensate CK for his many years of service as TV's teacher of the young, Columbia Broadcasting offered the Captain his own sit-com. The comedy was entitled 'Where's Barfy' and aired Febuary 12th, 1980 following an episode of 'All in the Family'. The idea behind the show was that CK played a nerdy-type eunuch who needed a place to live, so he moved in with two wild and crazy guys who in turn where actually gay gigolos played by Mr. Baxtor and Mr. Greenjeans, both from CK's original show. It failed miserably. Quickly, CBS gave Kangaroo one more chance with a variety show with an accent on yodeling. The Captain had many of his old regulars on the show like Mr. Bunny Rabbit and Mr. Moose. The show never made it 15 minutes into airtime because the openning act, featuring Mr. Greenjeans and his son, Ted Nugent yodeling, ended in a fist fight.

The Captain from then went down hill fast. He jumped on a ship headed fo. his homeland, Australia. Caught by some shipmen as a stowaway, he was gang-raped. Landing in Melbourne, he picked up an addiction for smack thinking it would clear away his blues. Needing a way to support his habit, he started peddling to schoolkids. One child, recalling the Captain's face from TV, blew the whistle on CK. He was arrested, tried, and sentenced to three years hard labor. While in prison, he and Roland Worndorf, a black inmate, became lovers; a love that still exists today. That love changed the Captain's life and with a little hard work, both lovers got paroled and headed back to the good, ol' USA. PBS quickly signed Captain back on as the master of childrens' programming. The 'Captain Kangaroo Show' now airs daily on all PBS stations nationwide and is grander than ever. Without furthur words, the interview!

The interview was held with both, Captain Kangaroo and his new husband, Roland, present.

BB: Jesus, what do you say to a man who has been to the edge of hell and come back triumphant?

Capt: Hey, I am not God but thanks for the compliment. But seriously, let me...

Roland: Capt'n, this interview's shit.

promised me if I got you back to the US, I could leave...well I blow now.BYE.

Capt: Roland, don't leave me, big dic...

BB: Well, I think it is time for me to let the lovers quabble by themselves.

and the ever popular

MODERN VENDING

The following is a telephone interview conducted with the help from our friends at AT&T. Thanx, guys. BB-Mr. Banjo. MV-Modern Vending.

BB: What's it like being top of the pops in the Metro Muncie Scene... knowing that Muncie is the music mecca of Delaware county?

MV: It's dandy.

BB: Not trying to pry, but what is your favorite brand of bean dip?

MV: Mild... no, hot Old El Paso... makes for good bean dip orgies.

BB: Speaking of orgies, I would like to interject; if any young ladies would like to meet me, Mr. Banjo, I will be appearing at a benefit roast to help separate House speaker J. Roberts Dailey and U-PREZ John Worthen. They were joined at the waist during a late night discussion on student aid at the Muncie Inn and Dailey still hasn't got off-of our beloved president. The roast will be held at the Student Center. Tickets are $10 at the door.

Now let us meet the boys in the band!

MV: We got Cortez Jagger on vocals and Biff Danger playing his bass. Steve 'Cringer the Owl' whacks at the drums... then on guitar there is Mark the Dad and Chris Scaramonga Cruzan.

BB: Now for a run of the mill question, for the record what is your dick size?

MV: Mark doesn't have a dick but mine(either Bif or Cortez) is twice the size of 12", they call me Big Dick...

BB: We here rumours you're going Christian. What's the scam?

MV: We are trying to dispel that fallacy. No Jesus Freaks in the Vending squad.

BB: Let say you all come down to my church and it's time for communion. What wine should I serve with the bread, the body of Jesus?

MV: Michelob Dark... in kegs... no, tequila, yeah.

BB: Let us help all those girls out there find what you desire in them

MV: Unnatural hair color.

BB: If Modern Vending were a packet of Ramen noodles, what would your flavor packet read?

MV: Of course the original flavor, Cherry Pez and Slug.

BB: Can I be a bit more frank on our final question? Name your favorite species of lizard.

MV: Ron the lizard, he hangs out in Belgium and occasionally migrates to Switzerland.

BB: Well folkes, there you have it. The most modern news on the modern group, Modern Vending. Until next issue, have a mod time, you crazy kids.

OPINION PAGE

THE HOUSE THAT JOHN (WORTHEN) BUILT

Since it was discovered that many of our devoted readers are forced either by class rank, Financial aid or some other inhumane reason to live in a Communistic "society" known formally as a residence hall and informally as a fuckin' shithole, we here at the Morality Rewiew feel a guide to dorm living was a necessary addition.

The entries (in type) were taken from the immortal residence hall handbook (also know as the freshman BIBLE) and was created by Lord, King, Nick Dickless at the housing office and his Nazi followers, your friends, the hall directors.

Facilities Safety and Security Policies and Regulations

DRUGS

Federal and state laws forbid the sale and use of drugs that are not prescribed by a physician or available on the legal open market. This means you must go to the Health Center for the good stuff.

SERVICE ELEVATORS

Service elevators are primarily for the of service employees and are not meant to be used by students except when they have injuries or illness which prevent them from using the stairs. Unless the keg is too heavy.

LOST KEYS

When a key is lost, the door must be recored, The cost of recoring shall be equal to the cost of the recore, new keys, and the labor charge for replacement. Why pay them when you can beat up a campus cadet and steal his master key? Then you can go anywhere you want.

HAZARDOUS MATERIALS

Materials which are hazardous to the health and safety of residents are not permitted in residence halls. This includes Dining Service, vomit in the drinking fountain and Domino's pizza.

UNIVERSITY POLICE

Being a member of the university community do not relieve a student of the observance of federal, state, or local laws instead, you get a write- up which is far worse than going to jail or

TRAFFIC SIGNS AND OTHER OBJECTS OBVIOUSLY NOT PROPERTY OF STUDENTS

Such objects found in our residence halls need to be taken immediately to the University Police by the resident who collected them. A telephone call by the hall staff University Police should proceed the delive of these objects. Let's not clutter up our beautiful halls with illegal stop sings and blinking lights.

WINDOWSCREENS

Windowscreens in residence halls are not to be removed or opened. Unless you accidentally bump them with your fists and they fall to the ground. Even though no one will believe you because they all fit so well.

Fire Drills. Fire drills are scheduled by the director in the residence hall. Why wait for a scheduled drill? Pull it yourself and run. Your friends will think you're cool. Be popular! The best times for a fire alarm is at 2:00 AM on weekdays-5:00 AM on saturday.

10 30 06 NOV ROOM & BOARD- ! 729.00

And you enjoy all of these many benefits of living on campus for such a reasonably low price. So when you are sitting in your 10x10 room or eating dining

Spoon Pudding:

combine: 1 egg
1 tsp. flour
1tsp. sugar and two grains of salt into a small wooden bowl bake at 350 degrees for a half hour. If you feel the need, add a couple currants.

Walnut Ketchup:

pick five bushels of walnuts shell and put through a walnut juicer
let ferment for three days
combine juice with five pounds anchovies
2 cinnamin sticks
1/2 cup of salt

cream them all together. Makes a great compliment for baked celery.

MIKEY GETS CANNED

(Muncie)- Mike Newell, self-proclaimed prophet of Middletown, was released from his job at subway last week. He reportedly was handing out free snacks to his girlie pals. Mikey cried as he was escorted out into a waiting police car. Said Newell,"I hope Brother Banjo doesn't find out"!

Newell's bail was set at $3.75. His lawyer has protested the amount as atrotious. Thus Newell remains incarcerated, pending charges. The arrest follows months of investisations into Newell's activities. Allegedly, he stole 3 rosaries from a retarded, pregnant nun! Just kiddin'.

Newell's obviously a heroin dealer. He probably farts in the bathtub. He's just a general no-goodnik. He voted for Reagan. Next, he'll vote for Pat Robertson. His feet stink. He likes cats, hell, he eats them.

Being ostracized from the village scene for his criminal acts he was last seen feeding pigeons in the quad with 3 old hobos and riding a BMX bike. Mike used to sell blood at the plasma center before he became anemic (notice the pale face and pale dick).

THE STRAIGHT DOPE ON THE TUNNELS

Other mags try to say they bring you the underground at Ball U, but we deliver the real thing!

BSU has a fine underground system of tunnels for your enjoyment. You can pretend like you're in a Channel 4 movie at one o'clock in the morning, performing feats of international espionage. This guide was prepared to show you the facts and fallacies about the infamous tunnels under campus. When the Daily News published a story about the tunnels, there were many inaccuracies which we would like to correct.

First off, there are no alligators, bats, rats and few insects other than mosquitos. Also, the 'BMX flasher' does not live down there and have a secret exit in the tree-covered Quad that he rides his bike out of to show off his peenee to sweet virginal co-eds. But there ARE many neat attractions like the Steam room, Beany, and Signature Hall.

Now the truth. The tunnels were built for maintenance reasons and house large steam pipes, electrical wires, telephone & computer lines and an assortment of other pipes. By creating tunnels, it is easier to fix problems that may arise rather than digging into the ground.

Maintenance is only one use for the tunnels and, certainly, the most boring. They can also be used for spelunking! Many people don't know it but they are walking above the tunnels on their way to class everyday and those metal gratings that they walk on make nice entrances into the underground. Some are welded shut making them inaccessable, but others aren't and those are about the only way into the tunnels. Once in the tunnels be sure to pull the grating back in place. Inside the tunnels you may notice the temperature is quite warm and the floor is damp in some places, especially on the Scramble Light and after a long rain. The ceiling is about 6'5" but because of pipes, wires and lightbulbs(yes, there is light in just about the whole tunnel system)walking erect may require some ducking and crouching if you are one extra-tall type Joes. If you are short then you may be able to dance all the way through. In some places, squeezing between some pipes is neccesary to continue on your voyage, especially near Teacher's College, but don't fret, it aint dangerous.

Equipment needed isn't much. Wear pants, old sneakers and a shirt you don't care about for they might get soiled. And don't make them to heavy, for it is warm. Don't bring lots and lots of equipment because it does get heavy. If you think you need too, a set of gloves and a flashlight might be fun. And a lil' buzz might help kill your nervousness. Some safety tips might be helpful if you are especially dumb. Should one of the large steam pipes burst when you are standing near, you will die a painful death. The chances of such an accident happening are about as likely as an airplane falling on you. Also take notice of the large red boxes hanging on the wall that say: DANGER 5000 VOLTS- don't touch them. On the floor, there are a few sump pump holes. If you fall in one, you will have to go home with shit all over your les and your friends will make fun of you. One more thing, if you should see someone else in the tunnels, avoid them. Chances are they BELONG down there. You don't. Ball U frowns on unauthorized folks (drunken students) screwing around in their lil' caves for obvious reasons. Escape shouldn't be hard since there are many passages and side routes. Just watch out for deadends. Running into people in the tunnels shouldn't be a problem if you go down in the wee hours of nite/mornins(and weekends).

The purpose of this article is to show the true nature of the nature of the tunnels and to dispel any BSU propaganda. We don't go down there and don't want to encourage anyone else. So don't go down there.

BRO·BANJO'S POETRY CORNER!

SPRING 1990

The Eagle by Alfred Lord Tennisball

He clasps the rock with crooked hands;
Close to the sun in lonely lands,
Ringed with the azure world, he stands.
The wrinkled sea beneath him crawls:
He watches from his mountain walls,
And like a thunderbolt, he farts.

Happy Day Lizzard

Choco Raddish Mother scratchin' at yer back door like a steel drivin' hammer.
Red Maverick shiny Monkey Bottoms Sulfuric acid bouncing like a small boy standing in a river dancing with corndogs and watermellons hovering overhead, butt gravy

The Truck Driver's Ode by Bingo Pajama

my love is like a mack truck and you are my first road kill-sticky, surry and full of blood.

o baby you get me so hot sometimes when i see you under the lights at fat marko's steak house, feel like listening to born in the usa while staring at a poster of madonna -- or taking a long cold shower.

MY DOG", PAULO MARONY BOTTOM, AGE 21

FOUR NEW AGE HAIKU by Fred the Poet

I saw a flower today, and it called my name it said "Hey Ugly what the fuck you looking at.?"

Then rain reminds me of dirty smashed up squirrells pureed in a blender and served on choclate chips.

I read my poems to my love last night, he wept, and I threw up, and then he shoved a hot poker up my ass.

I saw my Big toe today, it smiled at me with a glistening grin, so I cut it off and ate it on a cracker sandwich while watching the sunset.

In memorial:

In a tragic farming accident, Dave the Mango farmer was fatally crushed under 12 metric tons of mangos last Saturday. He will be missed as a highly profishional journalist and as a hilljack. Services were held at Meeks 24-hour Body Drop. His collection of Henry Lee Summers albums were cremated and will be spread over the fields of Hoosierland.

Now for the lighter side, some sports news:

how about that superbowl! The Colts really did well. That was such a neat-o game. 18th AIN'T SO BAD... OR IS IT!?

The following is the first part of a three part human interest series dealing with college life.

So... the word is out. At least to those people who read Playboy magazine. What I'm talking about is Ball State being ranked 18th out of the top 20 schools in our beloved nation. The editors of this newspaper feel(when we can) that this is outrageous and certainly unrealistic. Ball State deserves a top 10 position at least! All have worked hard(especially the editors of this newspaper) to rank a pathetic 18th and we demand a recount. Said sophmore Chad Gackler, "Ball State deserves a more respectable rating. Why, there's more drunks in Muncie than snowflakes in South Bend." You can't pass out in the gutter because someone's already lying there. Pass out on the sidewalk and take your chances with the Joggers. You can't swing a dead cat without hitting a drunk on the campus of BSU. No liquor stores are hurting 'round here. In fact, there are more drunks at Ball State than Christians, fags, hall staffs, lab instructors, punks and Dining service workers combined. Of course, John Worthen would like to deny all of this. On the Playboy article he was quoted as saying, "It wasn't a scientific survey." To that, Professor of Arcturian Medias, J. Barber quipped, "Isn't it just like J.W. to deal with a problem by pretending that it's not real, i.e. Vietnam. Hey John, how does it feel to be president of the #1 party school in the state"(probably in the Midwest)

DRINKING ON CAMPUS:

Ball State has a policy that states no alcoholic beverages on campus. everyone knows that this law is strictly adhered to. Just look at any garbage can on a given Saturday morning. Actually, drinking in the dorm couldn't be more convenient. No parents. No driving. No cops. It is perfectly acceptable (and not unusual) to stumble back to your room after a kesser down the hall. Just don't puke in the hallway(makes for expensive hall damages$$$$). If you are caught (God forbid) you will not go directly to jail but receive a write-up!(one more for you buddy and you're out!) This, however, is not by far the worst of consequences. If the staff nabs the alcohol, he will POUR THE BOOZE DOWN THE DRAIN in front of your thirsty eyes. To avoid this scene you must have a backup plan. One way is to offer the staff or director some of the good stuff(whatever that may be) to shut him up. If that doesn't work try using a loaded firearm(another item prohobited by BSU). The biggest problem you will have to overcome is finding someone of legal age to buy the booze for you.

DRINKING OFF-CAMPUS:

It's simple. Having parties every nite never gets old, however it does create a few problems, like spending all of your rent money on alcohol and getting evicted. Also, the trash does accumulate immensely. A suggestion is to let those beer bottles collect for several weeks then dumping them somewhere on campus. (Preferably at the Quad, Student center or the ADMINISTRATION BUILDING). Also, there has been numerous instances where the University or Muncie police have shown up to party with you. THEY ARE UNWELCOME!! Stand on your porch and throw beer bottles at them and yell profanity until they go away. That old lady next door was the one who invited them to your party. Cut her telephone and light her house on fire. If she has a cat, kill it.

Partying at Ball State can be fun but putting BSU at the top of the party list for 1987 is not just your responsibility it's everyone's. It's alot of hardwork and hangovers but we can do it if we work together. Campus unity. See you at the liquor store!

THE AL BARGER INTERVIEW

The following is an interview conducted with Al Barger, famous columnist of 'God and Country' in the Daily Noose, at the home of his residence. It is true that his favorite flavor of ramen noodles are chocalate. It is not nice to lie. Now to the interview.

BB: Albert, some people say that you're a sensationalist just talking the quicksell exciting Bible stories instead of the straightline scripture. What do you say to these accusations?

AB: Mainly, I'm pointing out the ones that aren't so easily accepted: Jesus says not to hide his word under a bushel. There are some passages/commandments that aren't mentioned much because they aren't liked by most people. Those are the ones I'm pointing out, the ones people don't like to hear. The book of Corinthians speaks for itself.

BB: Is that the point that you're trying to make in your articles?

AB: Yes, I want to show the things that are in the Bible that deserve equal time.

BB: Do you really believe you can change the minds of BSU students rated in the top 20 of party schools?

AB: Not all of them; but some of them, perhaps. If you take brother Jed Smock, for instance, everyone hates him but the churches will tell you that attendance increases right after he shows up. The people who know they're doing wrong notice him. Same with me. What I quote is right out of the Bible. They know I'm right and they don't like it.

BB: Your column has stirred alot of people. How do you deal with the threats of angry students, women, greeks...etc?

AB: One night a frat guy called me on the phone and said he and his friend were coming over to kick my ass but they never showed up. I got a shotgun for Christmas so fuck it, I'm ready for 'em.

BB: How has your newly found fame affected you?

AB: I have to wear dark sunglasses and beef up the security. It's hard to go shopping with everyone asking me for an autograph. It's rough at the top.

BB: What brand of Bible do you use: King James, Good News, Readers Digest?

AB: King James, of course. It was the one used by devout Christians. For any official use, it's the King James.

BB: How about a forecast, like when will Judgement Day happen(or happnen as our black brothers say)?

AB: No, I don't have any predictions. In Mathew, when the devil took Jesus to the mount, Jesus said"Thou shalt not tempt the lord, our God": he was setting an example for us. You shouldn't expect a sign. You can't expect God to be convenient for you.

BB: Who would you vote for in the next presidency?

AB: Pat Robinson, of course. In fact I'm planning on doing an article on his candidacy.

BB: What are your plans after graduation? Are your considering starting an electronic church?

AB: I'm considering the video religion industry. Really, it is a great scam.

BB: Any last comments, Al?

AB: A message to the readers,"I'm here a thorn in the side to all the hype in the Christian community."

BB: Well, kids of Christ, there you have it. The inside hide of Albert Barger. Remember you digested it here first. Be bamboozledly blessed!
